I. INTRODUCTION

Rover Pipeline LLC (Rover) is committed to the protection and preservation of cultural resources in accordance with federal and state legislation during construction of the Rover Pipeline Project (Project). Rover recognizes that despite intensive cultural resource field investigations that are typically performed prior to project construction, it is nonetheless possible that potentially significant archaeological resources could be discovered during project construction or maintenance activities, particularly during excavation. Rover also recognizes the requirement for compliance with federal and state laws and regulations regarding the treatment of human remains, if any are discovered.

As such, these Procedures Guiding the Discovery of Unanticipated Cultural Resources and Human Remains (referred to herein as the Unanticipated Discovery Plan) were developed on behalf of Rover and in consultation with the State Historic Preservation Officers (SHPO) of the West Virginia Division of Culture and History, Pennsylvania's Bureau for Historic Preservation, Ohio History Connection, and the Michigan State Housing Development Authority. This Unanticipated Discovery Plan summarizes the approach that Rover (and/or its contractors or consultants) will use to address unanticipated discoveries of archaeological resources during construction activities within the Project Area of Potential Effects (APE).

The purpose of archaeological investigations during the planning of natural gas pipeline projects is to determine the presence or absence of historic properties within a project area. These archaeological investigations are conducted in accordance with standards set forth in the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) Office of Pipeline Regulation's Guidelines for Reporting on Cultural Resources Investigations (2002), pursuant to 18 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 157.206 and Appendix II of Subpart F, which require actions taken under sections 3 and 7 of the Natural Gas Act (Part 380, Appendix A) to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (NHPA), as amended (1976, 1980, 1992, 1999), and implementing regulations of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP) (36 CFR 800), specifically, those procedures regarding "post-review discoveries" as outlined in 36 CFR 800.13. All work is undertaken pursuant to the Secretary of the Interior Standards for Archaeology and Historic Preservation (48 Federal Regulations 44716-44742 [1983]) and the applicable laws and regulations pertaining to the cultural resources and human remains of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan.

II. STANDARDS/GUIDELINES AND LAWS/REGULATIONS FOR UNANTICIPATED HISTORIC PROPERTIES AND HUMAN REMAINS

This Unanticipated Discovery Plan will be followed in the event any archaeological resources and/or human remains are encountered during construction of the Rover Pipeline Project. The stipulations of the Unanticipated Discovery Plan as set forth below are in accordance with the current standards and guidelines detailed in the following standards/guidelines and laws/regulations:

A. FEDERAL

- Section 106 of the NHPA, as amended (16 United States Code [USC] 470f)
- Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Archeology and Historic Preservation (48 CFR 44716-42)
- ACHP: Policy Statement Regarding Treatment of Burial Sites, Human Remains, and Funerary Objects (Advisory Council, February 23, 2007)

- FERC Office of Pipeline Regulation: Guidelines for Reporting on Cultural Resources Investigations (2002)

B. WEST VIRGINIA

- West Virginia SHPO's Guidelines for Phase I, II, and III Archaeological Investigations and Technical Report Preparation
- West Virginia State Code 29-1-8, and its implementing regulations, Title 82, Series 2: "Standards and Procedures for Administering State Historic Preservations Programs
- West Virginia State Code 29-1-8a, "Protection of human skeletal remains, grave implementing regulations, Title 82, Series 3: "Standards and Procedures for Granting Permits to Excavate Archaeological Sites and Unmarked Graves"

C. PENNSYLVANIA

- Pennsylvania SHPO's Guidelines for Archaeological Investigations in Pennsylvania (2008)
- Guidelines for Architectural Investigations in Pennsylvania (2014)
- Survey Guidelines for Pipeline Projects Above Ground Resources (2013)
- The Environmental Rights Amendment, Article 1, Section 27 of the Pennsylvania Constitution and Pennsylvania History Code, 37 PA. Cons. Stat. Section 500 et. Seq.

D. OHIO

- Archaeology Guideline (1994)
- Ohio's Revised Code Sections 149:51 (State registry of archaeological landmarks, effects; prohibitions; penalties), 149:52 (Archaeological preserves; dedication; effects; prohibitions; penalties), 149:53 (Survey and salvage; discoveries; preservation), 149:54 (Survey and salvage work permit; rules)

E. MICHIGAN

- Manual for Historic and Architectural Surveys in Michigan (2001)
- The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act, Public Act 451 of 1994, Part 761 (Michigan's Environmental Protection Act)

III. CONSULTATION WITH CONSULTING PARTIES AND NATIVE AMERICAN GROUPS

As part of development of the Project, Rover and the FERC have initiated contact with the West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan SHPOs and federally recognized Native American groups. Contact information for the SHPOs and Native American groups is included in Sections VI and VII. In the event that any archaeological resources and/or human remains are encountered during construction of the Project, Rover will contact the relevant parties.

IV. UNANTICIPATED CULTURAL RESOURCES AND HUMAN REMAINS DISCOVERY PROTOCOL

A. CULTURAL RESOURCES TRAINING

The identification of archaeological resources requires basic training in order to recognize potential sites. Rover requires that its employees and construction contractors have a basic understanding of the nature of cultural resources. As a result, all Rover inspectors and construction contractor personnel will be given basic training in cultural resource site recognition and the Unanticipated Discovery Plan will be included in all relevant construction contractor documents.

The purpose of this training will be to review Rover's commitments regarding cultural resources compliance and to provide an overview of the general cultural history of the various Project areas, so that both Rover and construction personnel will be aware of the kinds of archaeological resources that may be encountered in the field. In addition, the training program will emphasize the exact procedures to be followed, as outlined in this Unanticipated Discovery Plan, regarding actions to be taken and notifications required in the event of a significant site discovery, such as a discovery of human remains, during construction.

The training will be designed to ensure that Rover personnel and construction contractors understand the extent of the archaeological survey program that has been performed for the Project and are fully aware of the distinction between sites that have been located and "cleared" under the cultural resource program (i.e., determined to be non-significant after different levels of investigation or sites that have already undergone data recovery) and new discoveries during the construction process.

B. NOTIFICATION PROCEDURES

The following details the plan that will be followed in the event that new cultural resource sites or human remains are discovered during the construction process.

The protocol to follow in the advent of an unanticipated discovery contains the following steps:

- The Contractor will immediately notify the Cultural Resource Monitor (Lead Environmental Inspector [EI] or Chief Inspector, if the Lead EI is not immediately available) of an unanticipated discovery.
- The Lead EI or Chief Inspector will direct a Stop Work order to the Contractor's Site Foreman to flag or fence off the archaeological discovery location and direct the Contractor to take measures to ensure site security. Any discovery made on a weekend or overnight hours will be protected until all appropriate parties are notified of the discovery. The Contractor will not restart work in the area of the find until the Chief Inspector has granted clearance.
- The Lead EI will indicate the location and date of the discovery on the project plans and will notify the Cultural Resource Monitor (CRM), who will undertake a site visit or otherwise coordinate an on-site archaeological consultation.
- The CRM will conduct a preliminary assessment of the find to determine if it is a potentially significant archaeological site.

- If the find is determined by the CRM to not be a potentially significant archaeological site, the Chief Inspector will notify the Contractor's Work Foreman to resume work.
- If the CRM determines the find is a potentially significant archaeological site, Rover will immediately notify the FERC and the relevant SHPO of that fact. Notifications will be made by Rover within 8 hours of the determination of significance. Work will not resume at this location until FERC has provided authorization.
- Rover will direct the CRM to begin a more detailed assessment of the find's significance and the potential project effects. The CRM will dispatch an archaeological team to the site to determine the nature and extent of the archaeological deposits; Rover and the CRM will ensure that the team has full access to the required site area and is accommodated by the Contractor to complete this investigation in the most expeditious manner possible.
- The CRM will notify Rover, the FERC, and the relevant SHPO of the team's findings and recommendations, whether the archaeological deposits are assessed not to be significant, and request approval from the FERC for construction to proceed, or describe a proposed scope of work for evaluating the significance of the find and evaluating project effects.
- Rover will assist the SHPO and FERC in providing information to Native American tribes and relevant consulting parties as appropriate. At the discretion of the FERC, the CRM, and any of the SHPOs, a meeting may be held to discuss options and recommendations.
- If the archaeological deposits are determined to be a significant archaeological resource and it is threatened by further project development, the CRM, at the direction of the FERC and in consultation with SHPO, Native American tribes, and relevant consulting parties, will develop an archaeological mitigation plan.
- Upon direction by the FERC, the appropriate SHPO, and Rover, the CRM will implement the archaeological mitigation plan.
- A meeting or site visit may be held with the FERC, Rover, the appropriate SHPO, the CRM, and other appropriate parties either during or once the field investigation for site mitigation has been completed to review the work accomplished.
- Duration of any work stoppages will be contingent upon the significance of the identified archaeological resource(s) and consultation with the FERC, Rover, the appropriate SHPO, the CRM, and other appropriate parties to determine the appropriate measures to avoid, minimize, or mitigate any adverse effects to the site.

C. UNANTICIPATED DISCOVERY OF HUMAN REMAINS PROTOCOL

Rover will treat any human remains encountered during the Rover Project in a manner guided by the ACHP's Policy Statement Regarding Treatment of Burial Sites, Human Remains, and Funerary Objects (2007) and by the relevant state laws and guidelines. In the event that human remains are discovered during construction of the Project, Rover will implement the following:

- The Contractor will immediately notify the CRM or Lead EI (or Chief Inspector, if the Lead EI or CRM is not immediately available) of an unanticipated discovery.

- The Lead EI or Chief Inspector will direct a Stop Work order to the Contractor's Site Foreman to flag or fence off the discovery location and direct the Contractor to take measures to ensure site security. Any discovery made on a weekend or overnight hours will be protected until all appropriate parties are notified of the discovery. The Contractor will not restart work in the area of the find until FERC has granted clearance.
- The Lead EI or the CRM will indicate the location and date of the discovery on the Project plans and notify Rover and the FERC.
- At all times human remains will be treated with the utmost dignity and respect. Human remains and/or associated artifacts will be left in place and not disturbed. No skeletal remains or materials associated with the remains will be collected or removed until appropriate consultation has taken place and a plan of action has been developed.
- Rover will immediately notify the FERC and the relevant SHPO of the find, as well as the CRM, the local police, and appropriate Medical Examiner's/Coroner's Office.
- Rover will provide an opportunity for local law enforcement and, if necessary, a representative of the Medical Examiner's/Coroner's Office, to visit and inspect the site to determine whether the site constitutes a crime scene.
- If it is declared a criminal matter, the CRM will have no further involvement and the decision to declare it a Cleared Site for construction will be made by the appropriate legal authorities.
- If the find is determined not to be a criminal matter, the CRM, under the direction of the relevant SHPO and the FERC, will comprehensively evaluate the potential to avoid and/or minimize the Project's effects to the human remains. If no feasible avoidance plan can be developed to allow the human remains to stay in place, at the direction of the FERC and the relevant SHPO, Rover and the CRM will develop a site-specific disinterment/re-interment plan.
- If human remains are determined to be Native American, the remains will be left in place and protected from further disturbance until a site-specific work plan for their avoidance or removal can be generated. Please note that avoidance is the preferred choice of the SHPO and Native American groups. The CRM will contact the FERC and the relevant SHPO, and will assist in coordinating with the appropriate Native American groups to develop a plan of action that is consistent with applicable federal and state laws and regulations.
- If human remains are determined to be non-Native American, the remains will be left in place and protected from further disturbance until a site-specific work plan for their avoidance or removal can be generated. Consultation with the relevant SHPOs and other appropriate parties will be required to determine a plan of action.

D. PROVISIONS FOR SITE SECURITY

Provisions must be made to secure any area containing, or suspected of containing, human remains from unauthorized entry to the site. To this end, the Unanticipated Discovery Plan requires that security fencing with locked gates be erected at the site once the presence of human remains has been ascertained and the dimensions of the cemetery within the APE have been established. If it is determined that the burials must be removed, the area to be fenced will be large enough to stage and complete the disinterment. To ensure security during off-hours, a private security firm will be hired for the time during which burials are still present at the site; once they have been completely removed, the security fencing will be removed and the security patrols will cease.

Security will also be extended to the excavation and removal of the human remains. Temporary work shelters will be erected over individual (or small groups of) graves while they are in the process of being excavated and their remains removed. The shelters will permit adequate interior work space, but will prevent any outside persons from viewing the remains or the disinterment process. The shelters will also permit the disinterment team to work in most, if not all, weather conditions.
