Units temporarily occupied at the time of enumeration entirely by people who have a usual residence elsewhere are also classified as vacant. Housing Unit: According to the U.S. Census Bureau's website glossary, a housing unit may be a house, apartment, mobile home or trailer, group of rooms, or a single room occupied as separate living quarters or if vacant, intended for occupancy as separate living quarters. Separate living quarters are those in which the occupants live separately from other individuals in the building and which have direct access from outside the building or through a common hall. Seasonal, Recreational, or Occasional Use Housing Unit: According to the U.S. Census Bureau's American Community Survey 2010 Subject Definitions, seasonal, recreational, or occasional use housing units include vacant units used or intended for use only in certain seasons or for weekends or other occasional use throughout the year. Seasonal units include those used for summer or winter sports or recreation, such as beach cottages and hunting cabins. Seasonal units also may include quarters for such workers as herders and loggers. Interval ownership units, sometimes called shared ownership or time-sharing condominiums, are included in this category.
